Severia Giordano

Educational Content Developer

Severia Giordano is a Nationally Registered Emergency Medical Technician based out of Cincinnati, Ohio. She is currently studying Neuroscience with a focus in Neuropsychology at the University of Cincinnati. Upon graduation she intends to gain acceptance into Medical School.

My mission is to assist people in pushing past the mental and physical barriers that they have placed on themselves.

Severia has been working with the LRJ Foundation on school-based and mental health initiatives since a Senior in High School! We are excited to have Severia a part of the team in many roles, now serving as an Educational Content Developer.
